

PREA MADE BY WIFE, PRAYERS OF DAUGHTER, SAVE HIM FROM JAIL

Frederick Burley, Convicted of Swindling Young Women,
Paroled in Special Sessions.

The Justices of Special Sessions headed the letter of Mrs. Frederick Burley of No. 80 West One Hundred and Thirty-ninth street to-day and passed in her custody her husband, convicted of swindling. Burley, according to the evidence, has made a practice of hiring girls to solicit subscriptions for the Home Life Publishing Company of Chicago.

The girls were hired on trial for a day when they answered advertisements in a newspaper; at the end of each day all of them were discharged.

The publishing company received complaints from a hundred or more persons who had paid for subscriptions and had not received copies of the magazine.

When Burley came up for sentence to-day his wife, a girlish looking woman, with a three-year-old baby, was crying. Her husband also wept. Before the Court was a letter from her promising to take Burley away from New York.

The baby, said the letter, thought her father was ill in a hospital and knelt beside her crib every night and prayed God to send him safe home. Mrs. Burley also said that she had pawned as much of her clothing as decency allowed to help her husband because he had only three cents when he was arrested. She was herself ill and unable to support the baby.

$200,000 TO MEET BANK RUN.

Auto Laden With Cash Alarms Fears of Depositors in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Just before the Kenwood Trust and Savings Bank, on which a run started yesterday because of vague rumors, opened for business today an automobile from the Port Dearborn National Bank drew up before the doors and $200,000 was carried into the institution to meet demands of depositors. The doors opened at 1 o'clock, but before any one was admitted, A. E. Brown, President of the institution, made the following announcement to the waiting crowd:

"We are going to open the bank now and pay every one dollar for dollar. The Port Dearborn National Bank is behind us and we have engaged extra tellers, so we can assure you there will be no delay in making your checks. Several hundred depositors were paid during the morning hours and excitement in the vicinity subsided. During the run yesterday payments were made promptly to all depositors, about $200,000 being disbursed. State Bank Examiner Rutledge issued a statement that the depositors need have no cause for alarm."

Mrs. Garvey Bought the Suit.
Leon J. Garvey, American representative of the International Sleeping Car Company, is the defendant in two suits, one at least growing out of the successful divorce action which the Countess Marie de Grasse brought recently against her husband, Count Joseph R. de Grasse, and Mr. Garvey for $75,000 for the alleged alienation of the affections of his Countess, and Mrs. Garvey started suit for divorce against him. The Evening World immediately stated yesterday that Mr. Garvey had brought suit against his wife. This was an error, the facts being just the reverse.

PERSONAL SIDE OF WASHINGTON

Mrs. Reed of Missouri Regular Attendant at Lobby Investigation—Smoot of Utah Finishes Two Days' Tariff Speech—Alfalfa Bill Rips Up Huerta and Suffragettes Prepare to March on Washington.

(Special to The Evening World.)

WASHINGTON, July 23.—A woman is the most faithful spectator in the audience at the Senate lobby investigation. Neither warm weather nor notorious dullness of proceedings drives her away. She sits very quietly in a far back seat, keeping close watch upon one member of the committee. Witnesses, notables and sensational developments have no interest for her; nothing save the one man who is carrying the burden of the work, Senator Reed of Missouri. The lady is Mrs. Reed and she is there to watch over her husband's health and his strength through the strain he is undergoing. A wonderful helpmeet the Missouri Senator has, and no small degree of credit is due her for the assistance she is giving him in his public duty.

These are the days of endless talk on tariff in the Senate. For nearly a century the subject has been debated in Congress, and about every argument that mental ingenuity can devise and every construction of phrase that tongue can utter have been declaimed and carried in the Congressional Record, but still it must be repeated over and over again. Senator Smoot of Utah finished a two-days' speech late yesterday afternoon for the Republican side, unaffected by empty chairs on the floor and deserted galleries. Only the desolate watchdogs of each side sat it through. His audience most of the time consisted of four Republican and six Democratic Senators, who were there not to listen, but to watch out for parliamentary tricks that one faction might put over on the other in an unguarded moment. So it will go on for another month. And this is the way tariff bills are made.

When it comes to spreading the American eagle's wings and letting him shriek to high heavens, Alfalfa Bill Murray, Congressman-at-Large from Oklahoma, has set a new standard. There is not as yet much difference between Murray's personality and his speech. Both are loud enough to be heard from one end of Oklahoma to the other, and he points with pride to his cognomen of Alfalfa Bill. In the House yesterday Bill let loose a demand for intervention in Mexico right away to wipe Huerta off the earth, after the following fashion: "Through duplicity, treachery and murder, Huerta, the usurping rascal, now proclaiming himself the rightful ruler

MAGISTRATE FORGOT.

Levy Was Moving and Didn't Remember He Had to Hold Court.

There was no session of the Tombs Magistrate's Court this morning. Magistrate Levy was overpowered by the responsibilities of moving his home. He was so flustered that he did not notify Chief Clerk Philip Bloch of his intended absence.

Two hundred policemen, prisoners, complainants and witnesses waited on one foot and the other and sometimes on both feet from 8 o'clock until 10. Then Chief Clerk Tyrrell announced the extent of the dire disaster which had overtaken Mr. Magistrate Levy and instructed the policemen to take their prisoners, thirty in number, to Essex Market Court and to instruct the sixty-five summoned suspects to report to Magistrate Levy at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

"Protective Operatives" Arrested.
Policeman George Bruce arrested at the point of a revolver early today Samuel Miller, alias David Sallow, of No. 29 Second avenue, and Philip Kinkaid, of No. 155 Second street, Passaic, N. J., while they were robbing a store on New Main street, Yonkers. Both prisoners had on their coats badges with the words "National Special Protective Operative." With these they alarmed the suspicion of passerby.

of Mexico, has nullified its constitution, destroyed all lawful authority and government, has committed on the person of the President and his family a black-handed murder, paralleled in all history only by the pusillanimous cruelty of the Dark Ages, with all its superstitious fanaticism and dastardly deeds of rapine and murder," and so on. When they read down to Huertismo how Bill ripped into Huerta they will shoot up the town for joy.

The suffragists are planning to march on Washington July 31 and peacefully storm the Senate in behalf of votes for women, but, mindful of the trials of Gen. Rosalie Jones's tramp from New York last winter, the line of march has been cut to ten miles. The women are to travel by train to Hyattsville, just outside Washington, and there form themselves into the glorious feminine army. But even the prospects of marching ten miles appall many of the enthusiasts, particularly the Baltimore suffragists. Mrs. Calvin Gabriel, leader of the regiment from that city, has hit upon a clever scheme to save gowns and tender feet. She has commandeered automobiles for her party, and while the really, truly suffragists are tramping wearily along she plans to have her gorgeously gowne contingents dash merrily up to the Capitol steps in a long line of machines without a dress wrinkled or a dainty boot dusted.
